

The immense value of...

Faith-Filled Words

Language is defined by the people who use it. It's not who is doing the talking, it's about the words used...what they mean, what they symbolize. Christians believe there are right words to speak, right words that can be spoken over you, and that right words can change a life. Faith-filled words are those words that reflect a Christian's beliefs and that support the belief that "we will have what we say".
